Strategic Education International (SEI) is a 501(c)(3) educational non-profit. Our mission: improve domestic and international security through the education of current and emerging professionals.

Our Expert Faculty Include:

The current lack of trust represents a clear and present danger

Trust can only be reestablished through a holistic training program that provides high quality education, develops and enforces standards of practice, and forges a partnership with the community it serves.

The Law Enforcement Transformation Program offers police departments of all sizes a coordinated package of assessments, tailored education, and developmental coaching to improve professionalism and community relations.

The program begins with an assessment conducted with department leadership to baseline performance. We collaboratively combine these measures into a metric that documents progress and informs a developmental path for the department and the community.

James M. Dubik: Former Commander of the Multi-national Security Transition Command in Iraq charged with professionalization of the Iraqi Police Forces.

Arnaldo M. Claudio: career law enforcement professional and special panel member of the January 6th commission as well as a former Special Forces/Police Advisor for Presidential Hostage Rescue Forces and Technical Compliance Advisor (Police Monitor) for the Puerto Rico Police Reform.

Susan Bryant: Georgetown University Professor and former program and assessments manager for the US Department of State mission for the professionalization of Palestinian Security Forces.
